EXTRA PRODUCT

Renewable promise

These Extra Product Terms must be read with the Market Contract. In these Extra Product Terms:

- Hydro Tasmania means our parent company, the Hydro-Electric Corporation (ABN 48 072 377 158);

- RECs means renewable energy certificates, including small-scale technology certificates and large-scale generation certificates; and
- Renewable Energy means energy generated from renewable resources (e.g. sunlight, wind or water).

1. We'll:

- a) ensure that Hydro Tasmania or another electricity generator will generate an equivalent amount of Renewable Energy as we bill you for in that same calendar year; and
- b) engage an external auditor to examine the reconciliation of the Renewable Energy generated against the quantity of the renewable promise.

2. You acknowledge that:

- a) the electricity supplied to the Supply Address comes from the grid and consists of energy generated from both renewable and non-renewable sources, so you won't necessarily receive Renewable Energy;
- b) the renewable promise isn't accredited by the National GreenPower Accreditation Program and the Renewable Energy referred to in clause 1(a) won't give you any rights to claim or receive RECs or any other environmental product, whether or not the Renewable Energy is eligible to produce those certificates or products;
- c) we've made no representation to you that our renewable promise will reduce the quantity of greenhouse gas emissions attributable to you at law, or achieve any other purpose, and you've relied on your own investigations, interpretations, deductions, information and determination in deciding whether the renewable promise is suitable for you;

3. We may stop offering the renewable promise as an Extra Product by at least 20 Business Days prior written notice to you. If we stop offering the renewable promise, the Market Contract will continue unless it's also ended in line with the General Terms.

4. If you cease to be eligible for our renewable promise, these Extra Product Terms will no longer apply.
